

MSc Kinesiology Seminar Speaker Series

Lindsay Duncan, PhD

Department of Kinesiology & Physical Education, McGill University

Join Us for a Discussion of Adolescent Doping & Doping Prevention Initiatives

Dr. Lindsay Duncan is a William Dawson Research Scholar and Assistant Professor in the Department of Kinesiology and Physical Education at McGill University. Lindsay completed her B.A., M.A., and Ph.D. in the School of Kinesiology at Western University and a Postdoctoral Fellowship in the Department of Psychology at Yale University.

Throughout her career Lindsay has maintained a broad interest investigating strategies to support the initiation and maintenance of healthy behaviours (e.g., physical activity and healthy eating) as well as prevent the adoption of health risk behaviours (e.g., smoking). Her recent research has explored the best ways to communicate with young athletes about the risks of nutritional supplement abuse and doping. Lindsay believes strongly in allowing novel research questions to drive the research process and as such she uses a variety of research methods in her work, both quantitative and qualitative.
